FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – April 11, 2008

Super Silver Saturday at the Biggs Museum

Dover, DE – On Saturday, May 10th, join the Museum for Super Silver Saturday. Two public programs are scheduled in conjunction with the Delaware Silver exhibition, providing something silver and enjoyable for all. The afternoon will begin with Family Tea at the Biggs at noon. Following the tea party, Jennifer Goldsborough will be leading a lecture on silver in the Mid-Atlantic region. Below is detailed information on each of these events.

Family Tea at the Biggs

Time: 12:00 – 1:30 p.m.

Price: $8 Adults/$5 Children

Join us for an afternoon of tea, sweets and assorted finger sandwiches. This program invites children and adults alike to engage in the art of a formal tea. Children may bring along their favorite stuffed animal as their “special guest.” The tea at this event will be provided by Mighty Leaf Tea Company.

Delaware Silver Lecture Series presents “Blue Hens and Scissor Hooks: Comparing Silver in Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania” by Jennifer Goldsborough

Time: 2:00 p.m.

Price: $8 Members/ $10 Not-yet Members

Jennifer Goldsborough, co-author of the Biggs Museum’s 2002 collections catalogue and independent historian on silver and Early American material culture, will offer a comparative analysis between silver made in the Mid-Atlantic.

Tickets are on sale now for both programs. To purchase tickets, please call the Biggs Administrative Offices at (302)674-211 or visit our on-line gift shop at www.biggsmuseum.org. Delaware Silver: Masters in Our Midst is on view, free of charge, through June 29, 2008.
